

BANKS SUE CITY OVER STOCK TAX

First National Bank and Roundout National Bank Obtain Writs to Review Assessments of Bank's Stock Made by City Assessor—Large Sum Involved.

The First National Bank and the Roundout National Bank have obtained writs to review the action of the city assessor in assessing the shares of capital stock of the banks and it is understood that other local banks have decided to take the same steps. About $15,000 is involved. The writs obtained by the bank mentioned are returnable before Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck at the November special term of supreme court.

The claim is made that the bank stocks are assessed at a higher rate than moneyed capital in the hands of other corporations or individuals.

This inequality is said to exist by reason of the rate at which income from invested capital in the hands of individuals is taxed under the income tax laws, both federal and state.

HIGH TRADE ETHICS

URGE TO ROTARY

Kingston Rotarians enjoyed a official visit today from District Governor Lyle Kimmenth

Asbury Park, N. J., who made a earnest and interesting address in which he urged that more specific and tangible work be done in the line of improving business practices. Business men should get together and discuss the shortcomings in business practice in their line. High aspirations and lofty but empty and vague declarations are only just strings of words. It is only by getting down to earth and settling on specific standards that the tone of business can be improved and that honesty which really is the best policy be made

EVERLASTING FLOWERS.

"You are such brave little flowers," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets to the Everlasting Flowers. "Won't you tell me how it is that you last and last and last?"

"I'm the Fairy Wondrous Secrets, you know, and I would like to be able to share your secret with some of the children."

"I send them all sorts of secrets, you know, which are done up in packages and which the Dreamland King carries for me to the sleeping children."

"Do let me share your secret and let the children share it, too. Won't you do this, Everlasting Flowers?"

"We will," they said, "and gladly, if you will tell us a story. We have been standing here and doing what we are supposed to do."

"But we would like to hear a story. Will you tell us one, Fairy Wondrous Secrets?"

"I'd be pleased to," said the Fairy Wondrous Secrets, "for I've never told you a story and I'd like to tell you one."

"Then we must answer your question first," said the Everlasting Flowers.

"The reason we last as we do is because we look to the Sun and the Sky for help, and if creatures aren't ashamed to ask for help and advice, they are apt to get along better."

"You know there are some who won't ask any questions at any time because they don't want to admit they don't know the answers to the questions."

"It's so much better to be frank and not pretend to know everything, for no one, and no creature does know everything."

"There is much too much to know for that."

"Well, when the Sun gets up in the morning we look straight at him and wish him a polite good-morning."

"Then we keep on looking at him all day long."

"We turn our heads ever so slightly so that we are always facing the Sun, and when the Sun is going to bed we still look at him and wish him a polite good-night."

"In the morning we're ready again to wish him a good-morning and so, you see, that is the way we do."

"There are some of our family who don't do this, but they don't last as we do. They don't love the Sun as we do, either."

"You see, a great many years ago, the Sun whispered a secret to us and he said:

"If you will follow me all day long, I will make you really real Everlasting Flowers. Of course, I know you cannot jump up into the sky and follow me in that way, but you can follow me from down below and watch me with your flower eyes."

"So we did as he said and he has rewarded us like this. Now we do love our good friend, Mr. Sun."

"And now, Fairy Wondrous Secrets, tell us a story."

"So Fairy Wondrous Secrets began, and this was her story:

"In a little bit of a hut there lived a little old man with a little old wife and a little old dog."

"They lived very happily there together until one day along came a great fine-looking man who said to the dog:

"Follow me and I will give you fine bones and you will live in riches."

"You will not be poor as you now are, but you will be fed with the finest of bones and everything else that you can desire."

"The dog was very hungry then and the word 'bones' made him dream of a glorious life ahead."

"So he followed the man, and the little old man and the little old woman were very sad."

"But after a few weeks had gone by the dog came back and he looked the face of the little old man and of the little old woman, and he said in his dog way:

"I got bones and fine food, but I couldn't get the love that I had here, and that is more important than anything else in the world. For bones are eaten, and one can have enough of them, but love can't be eaten, and one can never have enough of it."

"And from then on the little old man and the little old woman and the dog lived happily together again, and never again did sadness come to the little hut."

"Thank you, thank you," said the Everlasting Flowers.

"So Fairy Wondrous Secrets began, and this was her story:

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

ROCKY MOUNTAIN TOM AND THE "BLOODY ESPINOZAS"

Back in the sixties in the Colorado gold camps around Pike's Peak the warning "The Bloody Espinozas are coming!" struck more terror to the hearts of the miners than the dread cry of "Indians! Indians!" The Bloody Espinozas were two Mexican brothers. The older, Juan Espinoza, believed that he had a special mission to kill all Americans. He ambushed them in the daytime and crept upon them at night. His record of murder is said to have totaled 32.

In 1883 he killed two well-known prospectors of California Gulch, near Leadville. Their comrades' revenge on the Espinozas, and after a long chase and a hard battle, they killed the youngest brother, Juan, and the next year he was back in his old haunts in the Sangre de Cristo mountains robbing stage coaches and wagon trains and murdering settlers and miners. He took his nephew with him on these raids and they grew so bold that a reward of $1,500 was offered for their capture, dead or alive.

At this time there was living at Fort Garland a little Irishman, called Rocky Mountain Tom. Tom Tobin was his real name, and he was a close friend of Kit Carson. He was one of the best mountain trappers.

When the report of the Espinozas' latest murder was brought to the fort Tobin immediately volunteered to go after the bandits. Setting out alone, he took their trail and stuck with it, although it led into the wildest parts of the Sangre de Cristos. Late one evening he saw from a distance two men encamped under the shelter of a shelving rock above a little stream. Stalking the two bandits as he would wild animals, the scout crept closer and closer. He knew they could not be taken alive, and he dared not take the chance of missing his first shot. The Mexicans were crouched over a tiny flame warming their hands, but in the dim light they offered a poor target even for so good a marksman as Rocky Mountain Tom.

At last Juan Espinoza rose. He stretched both arms wide, forming with his body a perfect cross and presenting a target which loomed up plainly against the background of a sky aglow with the sunset. Tobin fired instantly and the Mexican murderer fell dead across his camp fire. The nephew scrambled to his feet. The scout fired again, and the last of the Espinozas dropped dead.

A few days later Tobin walked into Fort Garland, carrying a sack, and demanded a reward of $1,500. The sack contained the heads of the Bloody Espinozas.

The Range That Really Saves

There are two separate ovens—one for coal and one for gas. Both ovens may be used at one time—or either may be used singly. In addition to the two baking ovens, there is a gas broiler oven. There is room on the coal and gas sections, at the top, for NINE large utensils. You can do all of your cooking at one time. You can do it better—with less waste and less work. You have coal for Winter, to keep the kitchen warm and comfortable; and gas for Summer, to keep the kitchen cool. The illustration below shows the wonderful pearl grey porcelain enamel finish—so neat and attractive. By simply passing a damp cloth over the surface you are able to clean your range instantly. No more soiled hands, no more dust and smut. It banishes the old time task of blacking the range. You owe it to yourself to enjoy the comfort and convenience of the Gold Medal Glenwood range.

WESTERN STEERS STIR UP RUMPUS

Early this morning while a large drove of western steers were being driven down Broadway to the Forest plant on Abel street, the herd became unruly in front of the city hall, and staged a runaway. Some of the steers dashed up on the city hall lawn while others pranced about on the high school lawn. Pedestrians who were passing took refuge in doorways. After considerable excitement the herders rounded up all but one of the steers, which when last seen was headed for the Wilbur tunnel of the West Shore railroad.

Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont.

The state of California bases its expectation of convicting Roscoe Buckle of the murder of Virginia Rappe largely on the testimony of Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont. Mrs. Delmont was a member of the party in "Fatty's" suite in a San Francisco hotel, which preceded the death of Miss Rappe.

Wanted Hoyt

If the New York Yankees succeed in winning the American League baseball pennant, young Walter Hoyt, a New York schoolboy, will come in for a full share of the glory. This youngster, who has been going like a house on fire, in the crucial four game series with the Cleveland Indians, pitched in two of the contests and succeeded in winning both of them.

WASHINGTON.—Fundamentally sound, financially strong, industrially unimpaired, commercially content and politically unified, there ought to be a work for everyone in the United States, who chooses to work, and our condition at home and our place in the world depend on everybody going to work. With the analysis of the situation, President Harding convened the National Unemployment Conference and assigned to it the task of ascertaining why millions of Americans are out of employment and of finding means of putting them back to work. The president expressed the earnest conviction that the conference would accomplish its purpose. There are two problems affecting the national life and the welfare of the American people which we cannot solve," he said. "At the same time the president made it clear that, whatever the results, they must be achieved by American enterprise and initiative, free from government patronage. No assistance, he admonished the conference, can be expected from the government which involves contributions from the public treasury.

PEOPLE ARE AWAKE.

When Charles Evans Hughes was Governor he frequently said that he was not afraid to trust the wisdom of the average man. Hughes was a believer in the intelligence of the people, his idea being that if the facts were presented to them there was no doubt that their decision would be right. It will be remembered that when he had one or two problems which he thought should be settled he organized a campaign of education and he went through the state appealing to the people for support. Whether he was successful in his effort is known.

What Governor Hughes did in one sense is what Governor Miller is doing every day. The latter has not planned any trip to urge any particular policy, but since the first of January he has made his position clear on every subject that has come before him and every subject which he thought should be given consideration. He went into the matter of state institutions and he made a tour of the barge canal. In both instances he presented facts to the people so clearly that the people today know more about the care of the state's wards than ever, and they surely know more about the actualities, not the possibilities, of the state waterway.

The purpose of the Miller administration has been to give the people a dollar's worth of service for every dollar spent. That some progress has been made is proved by the reduction in the cost of state government. It may be well to refer to the estimate of some, that to run the state of New York would cost $175,000,000, some even said it would cost more. But the fact is Governor Miller showed that it would be possible to reduce it to $135,000,000 and when he finished his work he had the satisfaction of knowing that he had saved $18,000,000 for the people as compared with the year before under a Democratic administration.

Governor Miller, however, realized he could not have done this alone and he has said so on many occasions. He has never omitted an opportunity to say that without the assistance of a Republican legislature he would not have found it possible. This is what the people have in mind just now and they are awake to the fact that the way to aid the governor in making a further saving is to elect Republicans to the Assembly.

NURSES AND DOCTORS.

Old-fashioned physicians looked upon themselves as ministers serving in humanity's cause and graded their prices according to their patients' ability to pay. But old-fashioned were going out when expert nursing came in and the fee of the trained nurse is usually a fixed one and must be paid if service is rendered. The man in moderate or straitened circumstances pays it—so he is hit in his tenderest spot—then lets his roof in need of recovering go on leaking, wears old clothes, and otherwise battles with the difficulties of making both ends meet in times when his business is the reverse of brisk or his salary is small and all the prices he pays are excessive.

Of course trained nurses have their side of the argument, but they might do well to consider the assertion of Dr. Charles H. Mayo in the Pictorial Review that "the nursing union has come to be the most autocratic closed shop in the country." Most people outside of the said "closed shop" will agree with Dr. Mayo that the nurse's charge of $7 for an 8-hour day "is more than exorbitant, it is prohibitive," and can not be paid by people of moderate means or by hospitals if they are to keep their doors open. Other physicians have been reported as objecting to the nurse with "so much training that she regards herself as little less learned than the doctor under whom she serves and not infrequently ventures to criticize or change his treatment." Dr. Mayo himself says: "All the training in the world will not make a good nurse of a girl who is always thinking of herself and whose heart does not go out toward suffering humanity in a desire to ease that pain by self-sacrificing service." Of course the same charge of self-seeking may be brought against members of every trade, but the profession of nursing, like that of the physician, is one that should never be entered merely in order to make a good living.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Is the peacock's "fan" really a tail?
2. Will skunks kill snakes?
3. How many fish hatcheries are there in the United States?

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Do elephants use their tusks to fight with?

Yes, in the wild state the tusks are useful in food-getting. Elephants eat certain roots which they grub out with their forefeet, and break up with the tusks. They are also fond of some kinds of bark, and can rip and loosen it with the tusks.

2. Why does frost hurt trees and plants more than freezing weather?

Because in winter the sap has run down to storage in the roots, leaving branches practically dry. But in spring when sap is rising, it fills the shoots and unfolding leaves with moisture, which freezes in a frost, forming minute ice crystals within the plant tissues. Sometimes a frosted plant can be saved by slow thawing, which allows the imprisoned water to go back slowly into the cells, from which the process of freezing had withdrawn it.

3. What makes metallic colors in some birds' feathers?

The "metallic" effect is due not so much to pigment as to the structure of the feathers. These have minute ridges that catch and reflect light something as a prism does, and produce on the eye a bright gleam that is different from the actual color of the pigment.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story

Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Once more Jim found a job through the Sunday newspaper ad that of attendant at a Turkish bath. The statement "Experience not necessary but preferred" gave him hope that his ignorance would not bar him from landing the job. It took some persuasion however to convince the proprietor that he would easily catch on to the ropes. Mainly because he was strong and intelligent in appearance, he was given the chance to act as rubber for the bathers.

"You know," it is more in the nature of a punning than anything else," stated the proprietor, "Don't be afraid of hurting them. That's what they pay for: Roll them, slap them, give them their money's worth, and they won't kick."

Jim thought the man was exaggerating until he had witnessed the treatment delivered by one of the regular attendants, and then he knew that gentleness was not one of the arts practiced at a Turkish bath.

Most of the patrons of the place were extremely stout, and took the baths to reduce. The severe massaging no doubt helped to take off a small portion of their superfluous flesh. "But it is not the only way to reduce," said Jim to a client who was fully as broad as he was tall. "If you were to ride a bicycle several miles a day and—"

"No ride a bicycle? Good Heavens, man, I couldn't reach the pedals, much less make them go around."

"Have a bicycle made to fit you. And then, cut your food supply in half. You eat too much."

"I live to eat. What's the use of forcing me to give up the things that make life most worth living? If I had to diet, I might as well die on the spot."

"You will, at that!" muttered Jim, giving him a foreful whack on the flabby thigh.

The red face grew redder still, and the three-fold chin quivered in anger. "You tend to your business and leave mine alone," he growled.

"Very well," returned Jim. "It's not my funeral."

But he came very near to being the cause of one later, when the next client came to him for a rub-down. Already the man was blue in the face, and seemed exhausted. Jim felt some compunction about massaging him so roughly, and modified his movements to some extent. But it was while he was rolling the man's stomach muscles and squeezing the pouches of fat, that he heard a strange gasp, and the man's head fell back limply on the table.

Jim stared at the pallid face in horror, not knowing at first what to do. He called for the proprietor who, in turn, sent for the house physician. After a long interval of intense anguish, during which time, Jim saw himself convicted of murder and sentenced to a life of imprisonment, news came that the man had revived, and would be sent home in the care of his own doctor.

The next morning Jim presented himself at the bath, wondering if the man were still alive. "He's a pretty sick man yet," stated the proprietor. "Haven't any right to take the baths anyway. Hear not, stomach enough. But of course he won't admit that, and insists that you are to blame. Consequently I'll have to fire you. You can stay the day out," he added, as Jim's face clouded with disappointment. "That's the best I can do for you. It's business, you know."

"Yes, I know, and don't you worry. That suits me fine. I'll stay for the rest of the day, and then take away." He returned to his job with a merry whistle. The man was alive, and he was bidding down the work for two days. He was well satisfied.

HELD AS SOUVENIR

State of Illinois Prizes Gavel
Wielded by "Uncle Joe."

Historical Library the Proud Possessor of Relic of Famous Republican Convention of 1904.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon's long-lost gavel with which he controlled the celebrated Republican deadlock convention of 1904 has been found, and now resides in the State Historical Library, appropriately marked, the Illinois State Journal says.

All these years it has been in the possession of Mrs. Charles M. Tinney and it was by her given to Mrs. Webster, librarian of that library.

This is the story of the gavel:

When "Uncle Joe" was elected chairman of the convention he was without a gavel. There was none available. One was needed at once.

Mr. Tinney had been elected sergeant at arms of the convention and it was his duty to secure a gavel.

In the rear of the arsenal he found a gun wiper. It was of straight, rough walnut with a small knob on one end.

The handle was cut to the right length and with this instrument Mr. Cannon maintained order.

It was an odd-looking thing for such a purpose and, as the convention became more and more historical, collectors coveted it and many a plan was laid to grab it at the end of the session.

Mr. Cannon himself was determined to keep it as a souvenir. James A. Rose, then secretary of state, was a collector of gavel, and he wanted it. The last night of the convention was rainy. Mr. and Mrs. Tinney carried an umbrella with them when they went to the arsenal, and it was given into her keeping while Mr. Tinney performed his duties.

When the last hour arrived and it was known the convention would soon adjourn and die, Mr. Tinney sent for the umbrella, saying he was tired and wished to lean on it.

His duty required him to stand by the chairman's side and assist him in whatever was done.

Mr. Tinney carefully held the umbrella next to the speaker's table.

"Uncle Joe" lifted his arm with the gavel in his hand and brought it down with a whack as he declared the convention adjourned. He left the gavel on the table for a second. One end projected over the edge in such a manner that one little movement of Mr. Tinney's hand precipitated it into the loose folds of the umbrella.

A dozen hands had been extended toward the table to grab it, but it was not there. "Uncle Joe" looked around to pick it up and found it missing. The choice Cannonian profanity failed to uncover its hiding place.

Concealed in the umbrella the gavel traveled to the Tinney apartment and in Mrs. Tinney's possession it has remained ever since.

J. McCann Davis' book, "The Deadlock," contains a picture of the gavel, but it is not a photograph of the original.

The book was published as an after thought of the convention. A picture of the gavel was wanted, but it could not be found, so another gunwiper was cut and it appears in the book as the deadlock gavel.

Served and Saved.

A reluctant, backward youth twenty years old, dragged his penniless self into the Bowery branch of the New York City Y. M. C. A. late last winter. He was from a Connecticut town, jobless, friendless and almost homeless. The employment secretary helped the boy and he got a position within 24 hours of his arrival. He joined the "Make Good club" and became an active member in this group of Christians who are constantly endeavoring to establish themselves in such a place in society as hard-working, right-thinking folks deserve. One night he was found in the lobby of the building in tears. His sister was ill and needed money. He was helped to give the girl the care she needed. As quickly as possible he paid back his loan. Since then he has moved into the dormitory of another Y. M. C. A. branch and has joined the church. Thus he makes room at the Bowery branch for another to be served and saved as he himself was. And so the endless chain of good deeds goes on in this bright spot in a darkened part of the metropolis.—Exchange.

American Old Style.

Three visitors in shirt sleeves were refused admission to the gallery of the house of representatives in Washington a week or so ago. While their occupations were formally belittled, they were, in fact, the very men who were denied the pleasure of seeing the men from their own state seated among the mighty, making the laws of the land. One of the visitors after another was told that, unaccompanied and then slipped of his uniform coat. The three visitors went on joyfully and went to it as they were well pleased with it they saw.

Impetuous Coyote.

On a ranch in Saskatchewan a coyote once came into the kitchen with a small brand, closed the door with a chair and then opened the door and a great of the animal. The coyote came in to get the chicken, and Mr. Coyote really has a chicken for his meal.

To bring before the country in visual form the vast problem it is helping to solve, the American Red Cross has prepared for its Annual Roll Call, Nov. 11 to 24, a poster showing how rather than diminishing the total of World War veterans entitled to Federal aid continues to grow. Red Cross Service to these men is costing $10,000,000 a year.

Succeeding former President Wilson, President Harding was recently elected president of the American Red Cross. He is here seen accepting the office. From left to right: Maj. Gen. Merritt W. Ireland, Surgeon General, U. S. A.; Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman Central Committee of the Red Cross; the President; Asst. Secretary of the Treasury Eliot Wadsworth; Rear Admiral Edward R. Stitt, Surgeon General, U. S. N.

Red Cross Trains 147 Blind Vets In Useful Work

Training designed to fit them for the battle of life was taken by 147 blind ex-service men at the Red Cross Institute for the Blind, near Baltimore, Md., during the fiscal year 1920-1921, according to the report of the Institute for that period.

Of this number, 18 have gone on to other institutions. In almost every case to institutions where those having sight are receiving advanced education. The blind ex-service men who have entered such institutions are provided with special textbooks in Braille, reading which they were taught at the Red Cross Institute.

Twelve men have passed from the Institute to successfully carry on some occupation or business for which they were fitted by special training. A few have withdrawn from the Institute because of poor physical condition. 14 are receiving further "training on the job" and 87 are still in training.

Red Cross Plans $6,000,000 Effort To Save Children

Medical care and clothing for their needs of children in Central and Eastern Europe are outlined as the activities of the American Red Cross in Europe for the current year, were a statement on the eve of the Annual Roll Call of the organization. These activities, supplemental to the feeding operations of the European Relief Council of which Herbert Hoover is chairman, are designed to provide the most adequate and balanced relief within the resources of private philanthropy.

Through the establishment of child welfare stations in the centers of population of these countries where adequate medical care is not now obtainable, the American Red Cross plans to provide these children in a far more healthy life. The sum of $6,000,000 has been made available for this work.

Red Cross Gives $310,000 to Aid 'Clean-Up' Drive

An appropriation of $310,000 for Red Cross work in connection with the "clean up" campaign instituted by the Government to bring the claims of all disabled service men who are entitled to Federal aid before the proper government bureau for action, has been made by the American Red Cross. The Executive Committee of the American Red Cross in making the appropriation authorized the appropriation of $25,000 of this sum to the American Legion to defray the expense of the Legion representatives assigned to the various districts of the Veterans Bureau.

The remainder of the appropriation was authorized for apportionment among the several Divisions of the Red Cross for carrying on that part of the "clean-up" work that falls directly upon the Red Cross organization.

Young America Sends Vast Relief To Needy Abroad

Various relief projects of the Junior American Red Cross in European countries resulted in helping 25,000 destitute children during the last fiscal year, according to the annual report of the American Red Cross for that period. The growth of the activities of the Juniors abroad is manifested by a comparison which shows this figure is 25,000 larger than that of the previous fiscal year.

The National Children's Fund raised by school children, members of the Junior American Red Cross, was again open for $425,000 for these projects. Receipts for the National Children's Fund during the last fiscal year totaled $175,227.

America Supports Russians
Food, clothing and medical relief amounting to $200,000 has been provided by the American Red Cross for the thousands of Russian refugees stranded last year in Constantinople and elsewhere.

Old Hurley Celebrated The Fourth of July In Spirited Man-

Curious Old Poster.

While calling on friends in Old Hurley a few days ago Dr. C. Wynkoop, who is spending some time in this city, was shown an old poster that recalled the days of his youth. Mr. Wynkoop borrowed the poster in order to permit The Freeman to make a copy of it, which appears below. The poster bears no date, but Mr. Wynkoop thinks the celebration it advertises took place in 1860, while he was still residing in Hurley.

Mr. Wynkoop is a son of the late George Wynkoop and a brother of the late James D. Wynkoop. He left Ulster county in 1876 and resided in New York city for 44 years. "When I left Kingston, in 1876, I could stand on the corner of North Front and Wall streets and call almost every man who passed by, by name," he says, "but now I know very few. Kingston has changed, but so have the times and Kingston and its people have kept up with the progress of the world."

Mr. Wynkoop, who is 80 years of age, but doesn't appear as old as many men of 50, figures in the program announced by the poster as "R. Wynkoop," the person who wrote the poster having apparently inferred that "Dick" Wynkoop's given name was Richard, whereas in fact his name is Dirk, the same as was that of his grandfather. The poster reads as follows:

SPRIT!

AROUSING IN HURLEY!

The worthy sons of heroic sires, who carried yea ancient borough of Hurley for Freedom and Independence in 1776, and who in the vicissitudes of the war for liberty in Ulster became the protectors and preservers of the persecuted and outraged patriots of smouldering 'Sopus, to show that they are true to the faith of their ancestors and sound to the core, will celebrate the coming Fourth in due and seemly style.

1. The day will be ushered in by the bursting of thirty-four huge pot cheeses manufactured expressly for the occasion at the extensive mines of Bogardus Newkirk.

2. Raising of the Star Spangled Banner from the cupola of the egg mill under the direction of D. Dodge, at 12 m.

3. At 1 o'clock precisely a grand procession, 2 1/2 miles in length, will be formed under command of Marshal Luc Miller, ex-Tycoon and dictator of Hurley, headed by the marshal of the day and his aides, mounted on Shanghai roosters, and brought up in the rear by the reserve corps of the Hurley army under command of Gen. Newkirk. The procession after marching through the principal streets will halt in front of Plough's blacksmith shop, 2.45 p. m.

4. Music by the Hurley National Cavalry; cheers for the Union; enthusiasm and great sensation generally, 3 p. m.

5. Oration by R. Wynkoop, ex-minister plenipotentiary to Lapalah.

6. Reading of Washington's farewell address by John Elmendorf, Esq.

7. National song of Hurley, entitled "The Goose Hangs High," sung by John Taughton.

8. A spread eagle speech on the state of the country by Coby Newkirk during which the learned orator will clearly prove that in spite of corn or cotton—pot cheese is king.

9. A grand shooting match between Hurley and Lapalah submarine batteries at 4 1/2 p. m.

OUT-OF-DOOR MEALS.

The wheeled tray or tea-wagon is an able maid when serving meals on the porch during the warm weather. A meal of more than two courses is not to be encouraged except on rare occasions.

A cold dinner is always agreeable on a hot night, and cold meat is the basis for any number of good dishes. Sliced cold tongue, roast beef or pork are always acceptable. This with some sort of an appropriate salad may all be arranged on one plate to save serving and dishes. Such meals may be prepared in the morning and left in the ice chest until evening.

Lettuce if washed and placed in a bag made from an old lace curtain will keep fresh and crisp for several days if kept in the ice chest. With a jar of mayonnaise or boiled dressing ready it takes but a short while to prepare the salad.

Savory Sliced Ham.—Mix together three teaspoonfuls of dry mustard, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, two tablespoonfuls of catsup and a dash of cayenne. Have ready a pound of boiled ham sliced very thin and one cupful of grated American cheese. Spread the slices of ham with the mustard mixture and place one slice on the other with the cheese between. Bake for fifteen minutes in a hot oven, then chill thoroughly in the ice chest. When ready to serve cut in slices at right angles to the layers.

Chicken in Mold.—Cook a fowl until tender with a small bunch of celery and one onion. Remove the onion and celery, strain the broth and cut the chicken from the bones when tender. Crush the bones, cover with a very little water and simmer until all the gelatin has been removed. Add a teaspoonful of prepared gelatin to the hot broth and strain when well dissolved into the chicken broth. Arrange the chicken in any mold, adding the chilled broth a little at a time until all is used. Set away for 12 to 15 hours to harden. This may be used as a salad, cut in any desired form or molded in individual forms. Serve on lettuce with a rich mayonnaise dressing.

11th. The whole to conclude with a national salute of 34 guns by the Naval Fleet of Hurley (stationed on the Esopus), under the direction of Grand Admiral Andres Vandemark.

That the day may be devoted exclusively to patriotic purposes, the Grand Tycoon of the city has issued his annual bull declaring an embargo on the sale of small beer and peanuts. The committee have the pleasure of announcing that they have secured the road between Hurley and Ellenville for the accommodation of the horses and wagons of those in attendance.

CHANDLER SIX

NOW ONLY $1785

Back to the Price of Eight Years Ago And a Larger Finer Car

For eight years Chandler fair price policy has made it the most astonishing value in the fine car field. Today it stands forth in startling contrast—a big, fine seven-passenger car, yet now back to the price of the 1913 five-passenger Chandler.

Only a large, successful organization with immense facilities and unlimited resources could produce the present highly refined and perfected Chandler at a price that was sensationally low eight years ago.

Today this splendid Chandler Six, famous for its marvellous motor and many individual features of design, cannot be duplicated in appearance or performance at anywhere near its price.

Chandler bodies, produced by master builders, offer all the elements of quality and refinement found in the highest priced cars. Stylish, beautiful and luxurious, yet dignified and avoiding the freakish and fleeting novelty.

What Constitutes Real Wealth.

Real wealth does not consist in the material things of life—gold, and silver and jewels—but in the intangible possessions on which there is no income tax to pay. A clean conscience, love of friends, love of wife and child, appreciation of nature's beauty, sense of the sublimity of art, clear faith in the progress of humanity—these are the things that constitute real wealth. They cannot be counted up in dollars, they exclude the tax collector, but they are real nevertheless, and priceless.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

United States "No Man's Land."
In United States history, the term was used of a territory 170 miles long and 35 miles wide in the north of Texas, ceded to the United States in 1860 and made part of Oklahoma in 1890. Between those years, however, it had no form of government and was the resort of outlaws. "No Man's Land" is also a narrow strip between Delaware and Pennsylvania. By some it is held to belong to the latter state. Some individuals living there prefer to perform their legal obligations to Delaware—some do not recognize citizenship in either state.

Keep Your Head Up.
A successful Dutch East farmer often used to give this bit of advice to the youths of his neighborhood: "I want for you to mind that on this here work you're representing this here outfit. Keep your head, an' come back with it up." If every young man and every older one, in every walk and every undertaking in life, will but "keep your head an' come back with it up" what a satisfaction it will be to look back over the past, and be able to say to one's self: "I always kept my head, and came back with it up."

Do you discriminate at the dining table—or are you thoughtless?

In thousands of homes, a "line" is drawn at the breakfast table. Tea or coffee is served for "grown-ups" and Postum for children. But some parents do not discriminate. Coffee and tea, the injurious contents of coffee and tea, seriously retard the development of the delicate nerve tissues in children.

Consequently, instead of rich, satisfying Postum, children are overstimulated by the drugs in tea and coffee; and so may grow up irritable and nervous. Any doctor can tell you that this is a great evil and should be corrected.

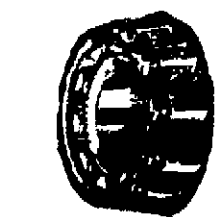

Although some parents feel a certain justification for the personal indulgence in coffee, yet the harm to them may be equally serious. It may take a little while longer for the drugs in coffee and tea to affect an older person, but in many cases the nervous system and allied bodily functions will become weakened. The surest way to avoid such possibilities is to quit coffee entirely and drink Postum instead. The change permits you to get sound, restful sleep.

Postum is the well-known, stand-by beverage. Like thousands of others you will like it because, in flavor, it is much like a high-grade coffee.

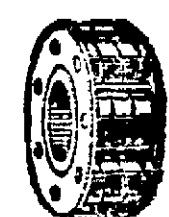

Do away with the distinction at the table. Serve delicious Postum, piping hot, to all the family. One week's trial and it is likely that you'll never return to tea and coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum in small packets in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum comes in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to taste the drink with the usual being prepared made by boiling for 10 minutes.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

WHY WEAK NERVES AND THIN WATERY BLOOD

CAUSE SUCH GREAT PHYSICAL WEAKNESS AND MAKE ONE AN EASY PREY TO A MULTITUDE OF DANGEROUS DISEASES.

Every human being is born with a certain quantity of "nerve force"—some with more than others. Your body normally makes or generates nerve force only about so fast, and if through overwork, worry, constant nervous strain or other excesses, you use up your nerve force faster than your body makes new nerve force, then your nerve power becomes weakened. And as a consequence your blood may become thin, pale, and watery, and you become feeble, crum, and irritable. In such a state you may not only suffer terrible tortures from a multitude of alarming symptoms, but in your greatly weakened condition you are an easy prey for the multitude of dangerous germs with which you must come in almost daily contact, and you may therefore easily contract some dangerous or even fatal disease.

In such cases you should immediately take something to revitalize your worn-out, exhausted nerves and create new nerve force. This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product quickly aids in enriching the blood and thereby helps it to furnish an additional supply of new nerve force with which to revitalize and regenerate the brain and nerve cells. It also contains a product which represents the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in form most readily allied to that in the nerve and brain cells of man. Nuxated Iron may therefore be said to be both a blood and a nerve food as it furnishes strength-giving organic iron to the blood and the most important element of the nervous fluid in the nerves. The effect of Nuxated Iron in cases of exhausted nerve force and impoverished blood is so remarkable and surprising that it often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, "run-down" men and women in two weeks' time. In fact, the manufacturer guarantees satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. Nuxated Iron is for sale by all druggists.

OPINION IN COUNTY REPUDIATION SUIT

Judge Hasbrouck's Opinion in Case Where Ulster County Repudiated Its Agreement With Trolley Company.

The action of the New Paltz, Highland and Poughkeepsie Traction Company against the County of Ulster and the Town of Lloyd, just decided by Judge Hasbrouck in favor of the Traction Company against the town, has many interesting features.

The plaintiff operates the trolley railroad from New Paltz to Highland landing. It claims to be the owner of its right of way ten feet in width. In 1912, a county highway was constructed from Highland landing to the ferry landing on the river. The town desired a truck pavement and at a greater width than the uniform width of a state or county highway. Its request was granted but the town had to pay the additional cost.

The town was also desirous of changing the location of the tracks of the trolley company from the southerly to the northerly side at certain places. The trolley company refused to permit this to be done as it claimed the ownership of the land over which its tracks were laid. A written agreement was then made which provided for the removal of the tracks to the other side of the highway and also that the trolley company would have an absolute, indefeasible and perpetual right to enjoy and use the land to which the tracks were to be removed.

This agreement was approved by the board of supervisors and signed by its chairman. It was also approved and executed by the supervisor of the town of Lloyd, and by the town superintendent of highways, and the state commissioner of highways, and then by the trolley company.

After the removal one James Daley, who owned land along the highway, claimed that the tracks had been partly placed upon his property by the contractor who built the road for the state, county and town. He sued the company and recovered a judgment of $564.81 against it. The company thereupon sued the county and the town for that amount. Judge Hasbrouck in a lengthy opinion holds that the town is responsible and must pay, and also states that it is with reluctance that he is constrained to hold that the county had no power to make the agreement.

Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier are attorneys for the trolley company; County Attorney John W. Eckert represented the county of Ulster; Andrew Wright Lent is counsel for the town of Lloyd.

Judge Hasbrouck's Opinion.

Judge Hasbrouck's opinion is as follows:

By appropriate legislation by the Ulster county board of supervisors it was determined in 1903 to improve the 1.20 miles between the village of Highland and the Highland ferry on the Hudson river. There were maps, plans and specifications made by the state engineer to effect such purpose. In the year 1912 further plans were made which included the moving of the tracks of the plaintiff to the center of the proposed road No. 354. On April 16, 1914, the board of supervisors pursuant to a recommendation of the Public Service Commission of the Second District directed the clerk of the board to sign plans to change the location of the trolley tracks to the "northerly side of the improved highway." "To correspond with the agreement heretofore indicated." The final plans showed the location of the tracks on the northerly side of the road to be within the limits of the road. The agreement "indicated" among others contained the following provisions:

"Whereas the parties of the first, second, third, fourth and fifth part being desirous to have the said county road constructed and to change the location of the said railway tracks, ties, poles, wires, brackets, etc., for the safety of the users of the said highway have expressed their willingness to protect the party of the sixth part in the enjoyment and use of its railroad and appurtenances and that * * * the railroad * * * shall have an absolute, indefeasible and perpetual right to * * * use the land to which its railroad * * * shall have been removed, and

"Whereas the land to which its tracks * * * shall be removed shall be a strip of land ten feet wide * * * extending along the northerly side of said road * * * in accordance with certain plans * * * and

"Whereas, part of the expense of removing, rebuilding and placing the railroad tracks * * * is to be paid for by the supplemental agreement made between the Bridgeport Construction Company, the contractor and the state of New York and is covered by the proposed agreement between the said contractor and the party of the sixth part.

"Now therefore * * * it is hereby agreed that the * * * railroad shall have absolute, indefeasible and perpetual right to enjoy and use the land to which its railroad tracks, ties, poles, brackets, wires and appurtenances shall have been moved as aforesaid."

The pivotal questions are:

1. What was the agreement?

The language used above in part to express it is:

The town "being desirous" "to change the location of such railway * * * have expressed their willingness to protect" the railway; and: "the land to which its tracks shall be removed * * * shall be land ten feet wide * * * in accordance with certain plans."

We think that language fairly constitutes an agreement on the part of the town among other things to place the tracks within the limits of the highway.

"It is a well settled principle that whatever may be fairly implied from an instrument in writing is in judgment of law contained therein."

Rogers vs. Kneeland, 13 Wendell's, 114.

Dean vs. Clark, 80 Hun, 84.

2. Had the town the power to make the agreement?

The control of the location of a street surface railway in public highways is lodged by the constitution in the municipal authorities within whose territorial jurisdiction such railways are placed.

The consent of the town is the sine qua non without such tracks may not be located on the highways within a town.

The consent of the town of Lloyd to the location of the railways in the highway, we may presume, had been regularly granted for the tracks have been in use and operation for upwards of fifteen years.

The change of the tracks within the limits of the highway constitutes but an incident to and a repudiation of their presence upon such highway.

Ingersoll vs. Nassau Electric Co., 157 N. Y. Reports, 454.

Such power in the town originally to locate the tracks upon the highway must involve the lesser power for public reasons or necessities to relocate them.

If it had the power to relocate the tracks it is a reasonable incident to such right that it would have the power to make a contract therefor.

Nellis on Street Railways, Vol. 1, Sec. 123.

Railroad Law, Sec. 171.

Highway Law, Art. IV.

Town Law, Art. VII.

3. Did the town of Lloyd break its agreement?

At a point along the 1.20 miles of road between the Hamlet of Highland and the Highland ferry the town located the tracks of the plaintiff without the highway and not in accordance with the plans.

At said point the railway was laid upon the lands of one Daley. With the expressed purpose of protecting the railroad in the use of its property and of confirming it in its occupancy after the change of the location of the tracks, was made from one side of the road to the other the town suffered or caused the tracks to be located outside of the highway. The singular fact is that the town, agreeing that in the new location of the tracks the plaintiff should have an absolute and indefeasible right, the town is responsible for placing there where the railroad had no right at all.

We think such action upon the part of the town constituted a public violation of its contract.

Polstead vs. Village of Westfield, 41 N. Y. 26.

After the location of the tracks at such point along the road on the property of Daley he promptly sued the plaintiff in ejectment and recovered.

This is a Studebaker Year

For the first eight months of 1921,

Our sales of Studebaker Cars were:

41% MORE than for the same period of 1920.
101% MORE than for the same period of 1919.

But our sales of Repair Parts were:

13% LESS than for the same period of 1920.
3% LESS than for the same period of 1919.

While the total numbers of Studebaker Cars sold were:

326,000 up to September 1st, 1919.
375,000 up to September 1st, 1920.
442,000 up to September 1st, 1921.

Summing up 116,000 more Studebaker Cars were maintained in operation with 3% less parts business than two years ago, which conclusively proves that—ered a judgment so framed that plaintiff became the owner of the lands but at an expense of the amount of the judgment and of a reasonable counsel fee in the sum of $564. To recover such sum this action is brought, alleging all of the facts hereinbefore stated and demanding judgment for protection against the injury it had suffered, and the payment in the sum aforesaid.

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

The defendants, the County of Ulster and the Town of Lloyd, have separately answered that the "indicated" agreement was beyond their respective powers to negotiate, that the agreement was not violated by the town; that the supervisor was unauthorized to sign the agreement and that there was a defect in the joinder of the parties defendant in not making all of the parties to the agreement parties defendant.

It is with reluctance that I am constrained to hold that the County of Ulster was without power to make an agreement confirming the plaintiff in its title to lands or rights or franchises in said highway.

I do not regard the point as well taken that there exists a defect in the parties defendant. Whether there be or not depends upon whether the written contract by the intent of the parties as revealed in its terms is a joint contract or in severalty. It does not purport to be made by six of the signatories on one side as parties of one part and the sixth signatory as the party of the other part. The parties contracting with the party of the sixth part are enumerated as "the party of the first part," "the party of the second part," "the party of the third part," "the party of the fourth part," "the party of the fifth part." Thus every one of the six parties to the agreement may be said to have represented a distinct interest and not to have had a common interest in the making of the agreement. The agreement does not say for the six parties "we have agreed." The use of the plural in connection with the verb, it is held, may support that there was a joint obligation.

32 Corpus Juris, Contracts, 572.

As to the language of the instrument under consideration it is put in the singular for it says, "Now therefore this agreement witnesseth the parties of the first, second, third, fourth and fifth parts in order to carry out such agreement." "It is hereby agreed." That is to say by each of the five parties to the agreement.

The contract being several each one was liable upon the breach for its whole consequences and the plaintiff had the right to select each of the parties to the agreement as it came to be held.

Not is the point well taken that the supervisor of the town of Lloyd had no power to execute the agreement. The agreement was offered in evidence having been duly acknowledged by the supervisor in his representative capacity and the acknowledgment taken by a duly authorized notary public. Such a document is admissible in evidence. Code of Civil Procedure, Section 937.

We think the action was properly brought for a breach of the contract.

Dean vs. Clark, supra.

Delafield vs. Village of Westfield, supra.

Rich vs. New York Central & Hudson River R. R. Co. 87 N. Y. Reports, page 230.

It follows that the county of Ulster should have judgment dismissing the complaint against it with costs and that the plaintiff should have judgment against the town of Lloyd with costs.

HUGENOT GRANGE EXHIBIT.

Unusually Fine Display—Over $200 Cleared.

Hugenot Grange held its annual exhibit and sale at the Grange Hall at New Paltz on Friday, September 23. There was an unusually fine display of fruits and vegetables. As one entered the room one felt that he was in the midst of a veritable harvest festival. The fruits and vegetables were arranged on two shelves along three sides of the room. At the other side was a large table loaded with an abundance of home made bread, cake, pies, etc. In one corner was the candy booth where home made candy was on display. The harvest idea was carried out in the decorations which consisted of cornstalks, sunflowers and dahlias arranged along all four sides of the room making an appropriate background for the harvest exhibit.

After the exhibit the products displayed were sold and over two hundred dollars were cleared.

Nobody Could Awe Pat!

The same little witch just owned the whole circus, owner and all. The big top, and the applauding crowds, the love and admiration of the whole troupe—that was all she knew of life.

Then love came, and Pat left the old life behind to find herself in a different world—a world of social conventions, of aristocratic traditions, of sneers and unkindness calculated to freeze her warm little heart.

WITHOUT HESITATION

We pronounce this the equal of any production that has ever played the Keene Theatre, and we know there are many who will think it the greatest screen drama ever made.

"They'll fly away, mother bird, they'll fly away."

Springtime, and the nesting birds outside the window once more make keen her loneliness. A pathetic scene from a great picture.

THE MOTHER WHOSE CHILDREN NO LONGER SEEMED TO WANT HER.

Suddenly they have all grown up and left her—the babies she used to tuck in bed at night. The old house is empty and silent. All have forgotten her. Her birthdays pass unnoticed.

Each child has embarked on a drama of his own. Loves, ambitions, temptations carry them away. There are moments of laughter and comedy, romance, adventure, tragedy. The story of their lives sweep you along.

Your life—your home—your mother—as they might have been or as they are. "The Old Nest" will awaken deep in your heart memories of the mother to whom you ran with your childish troubles.

Never before has the screen touched with such beauty and dramatic force a subject which finds an echo in the lives of every one of us. One of the most heart-gripping dramatic stories ever rated.

"The Old Nest" is real and touching and almost incredibly without an atom of false sentiment. I have seen it four times and cried each time.

PUBLIC MARKET
OPEN THURSDAY

The public market at Field Court was closed today but will reopen on Thursday morning. There will be no market Friday, but it will be open on Saturday. It was decided after a conference with the producers to hold the market open but three days a week. The market days, which should be kept in mind by purchasers, are Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

CROP FREEZING
DANGER PAST

The temperature the past week averaged slightly lower than last week and was near normal, according to the summary of weather and crop conditions for the week ending September 27, sent out from the Ithaca office of the weather bureau. No frost damage has been reported thus far this season and most crops are now beyond danger. Showers were general on the 21st and 25th and were heavy in some sections, relieving the water shortage. High winds on the 21st and 22nd did some damage to orchards in Jefferson county. Silos are now generally full. The corn crop was one of the largest on record for the state. Potato digging continues, with varying reports as to yield, running mostly from poor to fair; a few sections report good. Most of the buckwheat has been cut and good yields are reported. Fall seeding continues wherever the ground is not too dry. Wheat is coming up in some sections. Pastures were somewhat improved but their general condition is still poor. The grape harvest is nearing completion.

Life's Little Thrills

On the western plains the sheepman goes out with several thousand head and one human companion.

An ex-sheepman was telling of a fellow he once rode with.

"Not a word had passed between us for more than a week and that night when we rolled up in our blankets he suddenly asked 'Hear that cow beller?'"

"Sounds to me like a bull" I replied. No answer, but the following morning I noticed him packing up.

"Going to leave?" I questioned.

"Yes, he replied.

"What for?"

"Too much argument."

Now if you go into Charles A. Warren's Sporting Goods Store and ask for something you will not get an argument, you will get what you ask for. Whether it is sporting goods or victrolas or both. Just try it.

At the Theaters.

Opera House tonight—The world famous Bud Fisher creations in another new show, "Mutt and Jeff in Chinatown," with lots of catchy music and pretty girls. Thursday and Friday, Douglas Fairbanks in "The Habit of Happiness." Sunshine comedy an added feature. Saturday, "Three Wise Fools," excellent American comedy.

Keeney's tonight—Mary Miles Minter in "The Little Clown," a story of circus life, including a real circus and a romance of a lovable little orphan named Pat. Keeney's for three days commencing Thursday "The Old Nest," a story of mother love and sacrifice common the world over. Humor, tears and a plain story of everyday life as it affects everybody. The work of Rupert Hughes, this is heralded as "a genuine American play." Mary Alden in the role of the gradually aching mother is supported by a cast of noted screen lights.

Auditorium—Wallace Reid in "The Love Special," a gripping railroad story. Last episode of "The Diamond Queen." Thursday Art Acord in "The White Horseman." Colonial Theatre—This evening, Thursday afternoon and night, Catherine Calvert supported by an all star cast in the famous film play, "The Heart of Maryland."

Tonight at the Orpheum Theatre—Ladies' wood sawing contest. Prizes will be awarded. Tonight's feature Louise Gleason in "Sex."

Dr. Steele Here Sunday.

Dr. John Steele, director of the Department of Delinquency of the Presbyterian Board of Temperance and Moral Welfare, will make addresses next Sunday, October 2, at follows: Morning, Poughkeepsie Presbyterian Church. Afternoon, County Jail at Kingston. Evening, Rondout Presbyterian Church.

German Mark Still Lower.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 28.—A new low record for the German mark was made at the opening of the foreign exchange market today. It falling 4 1/2 points to 197.8. Other exchanges showed slight losses.

Stop Before Evening.

Not to discriminate every moment some passionate attitude in those about us, and in the very brilliancy of their gifts the magic dividing of fence on their way, in on this short day of frost and sun, to sleep before evening.
—Walker Percy, in The Renaissance.

Disappearing Eagle.

Americans have made war to an extent upon the national bird, the American eagle—that few symbols of the species are left in the East, and when one of these birds shows itself the first impulse of a man of boy who sees it is to shoot to kill. Yet the eagle is a harmless bird and does little to nobody. Now it is a bald-headed eagle film over a national capital and a few are to be seen in the region of Washington. They have become rare. Last year a large and handsome number of species was shot and killed in woods bordering Southern creek, at thirty miles from Washington, close to the junction of that creek and the Potomac river.
